

Building a New Community Takes Heart

How real estate developer Blake Twedt is making a difference

For Immediate Release

May 20, 2009. Blake Twedt has spent more than two years patiently carving out a little piece of paradise nestled in the beautiful mountains of North Carolina. And his vision of a community built upon giving rather than taking has now become a reality with the completion of Overlook Brasstown.

“I really believe that to whom much is given, much is expected,” said Twedt. “At the end of the day, it’s about what you have done for others that really...”

For more... Contact FireFly Writing.